One Point of Agreement

In one respect alone did today's last-minute prophesies agree. They all foresaw a recession of the Republican tide which rose so high in 1928—a scaling down of the present overgrown Republican majorities in congress, and perhaps, too, an accompanying turn toward the Democrats in some of the elections to minor office.

Closing up shop after one of the most determined campaigns they ever waged for congressional control, the Democratic managers predicted their party would elect a majority of the house, and would

OHIO AWAITS DECISION

Vote to Register Opinion of State and National Administration.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3—Ohio tomorrow will decide whether she will give the Republican administrations, state and national, a vote of confidence or whether she will repudiate them.

Republicans, realizing the importance of keeping the Buckeye state in the Republican column two years hence when the Presidential election comes, have carried on a campaign of praise for the administrations of President Hoover and Governor Cooper.

From the national standpoint, however, the prohibition question appeared to overshadow that of the Hoover administration in the campaign speeches. Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland, Democratic senatorial nominee, declared for repeal of the 18th amendment and its enforcement measures, and U. S. Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, seeking to succeed himself, declared just as loudly for retention of the amendment and its strict enforcement.

Opposing Viewpoints

Senator McCulloch praised the Hoover administration's accomplishments and called upon the voters to send him back to the

HUBER CO. TO START PRODUCTION ON 200 IMPROVED COMBINES SOON

Harvester and Thresher To Be Placed on Market After Extensive Tests.

AFTER three years of experimental work in which it has had test machines in the field, the Huber Mfg. Co. this year will go into production of a perfected combine harvester. Between 150 and 200 of these machines will be manufactured this winter and next spring.

The Huber company is known throughout the country for its farm machinery. The harvester is one of its most recent additions to a line of modern farm equipment.

The harvester is manufactured in two sizes, cutting 16 and 12 foot swaths.

THE thresher mechanism is exceptionally liberal in dimensions, according to company officials. This is because, in its manufacture of threshers, engineers have found it important to have plenty of cylinder and separating capacity to thoroughly separate the grain from the heads and the straw

A rasp-like arrangement instead of the former conventional spike cylinder is built into the new harvester. This arrangement makes it possible to separate the grain without chopping the straw into fine bits, and also eliminates the use of a recleaner, necessary when fine bits of straw are mixed in with the grain.

Rotary type racks insure thorough agitation and rapid movement of the straw.

THE combine harvester can be operated in the field by one man. It is most commonly used behind a tractor, which requires another man. It is easily converted into a compact unit for transportation, the platform on which the cutting plades function being removed and placed on an axle and two wheels at the rear of the harvester. Dismantled in this fashion, the harvester will easily pass through the ordinary size gate.

Combine harvesters have come into common use in recent years for harvesting grains, soy beans, and even corn. In a day, the 16 foot harvester will cut and thresh 40 acres of wheat, doing the work with two men that a threshing and cutting gang were previously required to do.

The power unit of the harvester is a Waukesha motor. In addition to this, a tractor of 20-36 horsepower is required to pull the 16-foot size. A smaller tractor is sufficient to handle the 12-foot size.

OUTLAW OIL GUSHER FINALLY CONQUERED

Oklahoma City Breathes Relief as Workers Curb Wild Well.

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov 3—The outlaw gusher, its volcanic fury curbed by a giant iron die nipple, the device which conquered the famous "Wild Mary" Sudik, surged in vain against restraining connections today while Oklahoma City breathed its relief.

Described as the greatest peril in the history of this oil-beleaguered municipality, the No. 1 C. E. Stout gusher of the Morgan Petroleum Co. shot 300 feet into the air its amazing volume of gas and oil, estimated at 100,000,000 cubic feet and 75,000 barrels daily, for nearly four days.

As a spectacular climax, waste oil on the North Canadian river, on the south bank of which the Stout well is located, became ignited about seven miles downstream from the well a few minutes before the army of workmen succeeded in harnessing the gusher yesterday afternoon.

National guardsmen, who aided officers and firemen in enforcing the rigid no-fire restrictions in the danger zone, were withdrawn after the well was shut in.

Owners of the well today were faced with the prospect of half a hundred or more damage suits because of the far-reaching activities of their wild geyser of oil

TWO STORES LOOTED OF CASH, CLOTHING

Marion Drug Store and Caledonia Clothing Establishment Entered.

Loot approximating $600 was obtained in two store burglaries in Marion and Marion county last night, reports of officials today revealed.

Burglars took $200 in cash from Eckerd drug store here last night while the Burson clothing store at Caledonia was being sacked of 20 suits valued at $400.

They swelled major burglaries in the city and county in the last few days to three.

Loot Cash Register

Eckerd's drug store at 140 South Main street last night was burglarized of $200. It was the second burglary on South Main street in the last few days, swelling the total loot for the two jobs to $374.

Burglars did not disturb the stock of the store, but confined their efforts to the cash register which contained late Saturday and Sunday receipts. Entrance was gained through the transom of a rear door, according to H. E. Moyer, manager.

The burglary took place between 8 p. m. yesterday when the store was closed at 8 a. m. today. Police are making an investigation.

A week ago, burglars worked the combination of a safe in the office of G. Farr Larie and escaped with $174 in cash.

C., M. & B. LINE BRINGS $31,500 AT SALE TODAY

Malo Bros., Local Junk Dealers, Purchase Railway Company Property.

THREE FIRMS MAKE BIDS

Plans for Future Uncertain; Possibility Operation May Be Discontinued.

Property of the Columbus, Marion, Bucyrus Railway Co. was sold to Malo Bros., local junk firm, for $31,500 at a receiver's sale on the courthouse steps this afternoon. The sale lacks confirmation of the common pleas court to be offical.

The sale will go to the court probably Monday. Confirmation is regarded likely among interested parties.

Whether the line will continue operating is problematical. Representatives of the Malo firm refused to reveal their plans. The fact that the Joseph Schonthal Co., a Columbus junk firm was the last to bid under the Malo bid with the avowed intentions of salvaging the property would indicate the line may be discontinued and junked.

The Malo firm, the Schonthal Co. and the C., D. & M. Electric Co. were bidders. First bid was made by the C., D. & M. Electric Co. at $30,000. Eight bids and counter bids from the Schonthal Co. and the Malo firm raised the figure to $31,500 at which it was declared sold

The sale was conducted by George Whysall, receiver.

Sale of the company under a receivership followed a court order which was the outgrowth of a suit in common pleas court to collect a small bill from the company

The property of the electric railroad has been appraised at $96,122.83 while its bonded indebtedness is more than $400,000, according to reports filed in court by Mr. Whysall, receiver.

Rules on Claims

Common pleas court has ruled the Guardian Savings & Trust Co. of Cleveland has the best lien on the property. The company is trustee for holders of bonds secured by its mortgage deed of trust and its claim of $49,068 holds priority over the $371,666.67 claim of the Irving Trust Co. of New York, the court has held.

The line has been in operation since the order of sale was made. Mr. Whysall, receiver, is also president and general manager of the company.

The electric line has been in the hands of a receiver since May 13 after a petition had been filed in court by William Titus, doing business as the Titus Machine Works. He claimed the company owed him a bill of $109.37 for materials. He asked that a receiver be appointed to protect stockholders and creditors.

The company service represents a link in Columbus-Cleveland electric rail service, both passenger and freight, and its abandonment would send this traffic to a more circuitous route.

The Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railroad Co. was organized in 1908. Reorganization of the company in 1914 resulted in the change of its name to the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railway Co.

All property, tracks and equipment of the company lie in and between Marion and Bucyrus.

CITY MENACED BY BLAZING GASOLINE

Flaming Fluid Showers Large Section of Kansas City Following Blast.

By United Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 3 — Thousands of gallons of oil and gasoline were menaced by fire today when the explosion of a 20,000-gallon gasoline storage tank sprayed liquid fire over a large area of Kansas City's warehouse district.

Flames shot 300 feet in the air from the demolished tank and blazing rivulets of gasoline flowed in every direction. All available fire fighting apparatus was rushed to the scene.

Ten huge storage tanks near the one which exploded were in the center of the menaced area. Other valuable property was in the path of the flames.

Clouds of smoke hung over the area, hindering firemen who were using chemicals to fight the blaze. Residents of the district began leaving their homes, taking their furniture and belongings to other parts of the city.

One man was injured critically in the explosion. Witnesses said his body was thrown 60 feet by the blast.

Gasoline poured into storm sewers and ignited, flames shooting high from manholes and blowing the covers into the air.

SEE SCHOOL LEVY VICTORY

Many Observers Predict 3-Mill Tax Will Carry at Polls Tuesday.

ASK FIVE-YEAR RENEWAL

Forty Per Cent of Income for Education Here Is Provided by Levy.

Editor's Note—Because it is absolutely essential for the good of the community and the future of its young people that Marion's public school system be maintained unimpaired, The Star is whole-heartedly in favor of the three-mill tax levy for school operations which is to come before the voters in November. This levy has been in effect over a period of years and as a consequence its continuance will not increase the total city tax rate. For the purpose of explaining the great importance of voters supporting the levy proposal, a series of articles dealing with the schools' requirements will appear in these columns. One of the series follows.

Renewal of the three-mill school levy which will come before city voters at the polls Tuesday was predicted on many sides today as voters prepared to cast their ballots in the city's 42 precincts.

Merits of the levy have been explained before nearly every club and organization in the city during the last month, and through the columns of The Star, during which time every phase of the subject has been outlined by school officials.

Now 10 Years Old

The levy has existed for 10 years, having first been voted upon in 1920 and having been renewed for another five-year period in 1925 by an overwhelming majority of 5,446 votes to 1,681.

In order for a levy of this kind to exist, it must be passed upon by voters themselves. It has been pointed out, since the law prevents a board from arbitrarily declaring such a levy.

Failure of the levy to be renewed will mean a curtailment of the school year from the present nine months to six or seven, with the possibility that the teaching staff, now at its minimum, may also be reduced, it has also been shown.

Following are some of the reasons given by school officials for continuance of the levy:

"This city wants a full term of at least nine months of school and this cannot be unless the levy is renewed.

"The levy has been in existence for the last 10 years and the need of it now is far greater than at any time during the period due to the increase in school enrollments and a consequent increase in expenses.

"Renewal of the levy will not increase school taxes and the present school tax rate is well below the

Plenty of Fun

(Will Rogers Special)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 3 —Come pretty near having two holidays of equal importance in the same week, Hallowe'en and election and of the two, election provides us the most fun.

On Hallowe'en they put pumpkins on their heads and on election they don't have to.

Candidates have been telling you that if elected they would "pull you from the bog hole of financial misery." Now is a good chance to get even with 'em by electing 'em, just to prove what liars they are.

Personally, I think this is the right year for a good man to be defeated in.

LOCAL PARTY HEADS MAKE STATEMENTS

Prettyman Predicts Election of Cooper and McCulloch in State.

HEAVY VOTE EXPECTED

Dr. Altmaier Says Democrats Look for Complete Success at Polls.

Predictions of victory were issued today by county political leaders on the eve of the state and county election Tuesday.

"I am confident Marion county will join with the entire state in returning Governor Myers Y. Cooper and U. S. Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, while I think the majority of our county ticket will win," R. E. Prettyman, county Republican executive committee chairman, declared.

"We have waged a careful, clean campaign and have put our cause up to the voters in such a way that we expect success," Dr. C. J. Altmaier, county Democratic executive chairman, said. "We are trying to elect our entire ticket and have not compromised one bit on any candidate."

Expect Heavy Vote

A heavy vote that will approach the proportion of that of 1928 is being expected by election board officials, who placed their estimate conservatively at 16,000 as compared to 18,800 two years ago during the presidential campaign when a record vote was cast.

Election board heads expect at least 10,000 votes in the city of Marion where 11,875 are registered and eligible to vote, while a 5,500 vote is predicted in the county. Two years ago the city vote was 12,717 on a registration of about 14,000 and the county vote was 6,062.

Pre-election wagers placed locally indicate that voters expect the closest races to be those for prosecuting attorney, sheriff and congress, on all of which the betting is practically even. Numerous bets were placed that Mouser would carry Marion county and several of the offers were taken, while other bets were placed and taken that Smith would invade Mouser's home county and take it. Mouser also was favored by some to win Hardin county, Smith's home territory.

Few wagers were made on the gubernatorial race, although betting was keen on the senatorial battle between Roscoe C. McCulloch incumbent, and Robert L. Bulkley, Democratic opponent. One bet of $10 against $40 was made that Bulkley would be elected by a 400,000 majority while another of $100 to $400 was placed that both Bulkley and White would be elected over McCulloch and Cooper.

An airplane was used for the first time in Marion county politics today when friends of Russell M. Wilhelm, Democratic candidate for prosecuting attorney, chartered the Swallow biplane at the Marion airport and dropped handbills for Wilhelm over the city and villages.

DROWNING TRAGEDY TAKES THREE LIVES

Two U. S. Vice Consuls in Cuba in Futile Effort To Rescue Woman.

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Nov. 3—Bodies of two American vice counsuls in Cuba were sought today in Matanzas bay after a drowning tragedy in which two men died in a futile attempt to save the wife of one from drowning.

The three drowned were John Tillotson Wainwright, 32, of New York, American vice consul at Matanzas, and Mr. and Mrs. William I. Jackson of Englewood, N. J. Mr. Jackson, who was 36, was vice consul at Havana. The body of Mrs. Jackson was reported recovered today by fishermen four miles from the scene.

A third vice consul, Sydney Gest of Havana, barely escaped with his life in a futile attempt to rescue the trio when his wife found a long pole and pulled him to shore.

The three vice consuls were spending Sunday with their wives at Matanzas. Mrs. Jackson climbed to the top of a high cliff overlooking the bay. A sudden swirl of wind caught her and blew her over the cliff into the bay.

Her husband jumped in after her, but in a moment it appeared certain to those on the shore that his attempt would be futile in the rough water. Wainwright then dove into the bay, and for a moment all three could be seen on the crest of a wave.

A moment later Gest went into the water also but was soon exhausted without seeing the trio again and tried to get back to shore. He probably would have drowned too had not his wife pulled him out with the pole.

CALEDONIA SCHOOLS ARE FACING CRISIS

Three-Mill Levy Needed To Insure Operation of First Grade Institution.

Special to The Star

CALEDONIA Nov. 3 The future of the Caledonia High school will rest in the hands of voters here Tuesday and today the board of education made its final appeal for the passage of the three-mill levy.

The board faces the possibility of discontinuing the operation of a first grade high school in case the levy is not passed. In case the levy fails the board will be forced to pay the tuition of all pupils desiring to enter other schools in the district.

Members of the board answered a letter submitted by a rival banker in which suggestions were made on how to operate the schools without the need of an extra levy. The letter suggested that three subjects home economics chemistry and vocational agriculture be dropped from the high school course.

It was pointed out that the state demands that home economics be taught in first grade high schools. Agriculture is no directly required but the teacher here also directs the manual training classes demanded by the state. Half his salary is paid by the state and federal governments. The board said that the removal of chemistry from the course would mean the addition of another subject not as expensive.

Chevalier Picture on for Last Time Tonight; Norma Talmadge Coming in "Du Barry"; "Sun Kist Vanities" on Bill at Ohio; Wheeler, Woolsey Comedy Film at Marion.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

ANOTHER GLASS of parking champagne for theater goers to the Palace tonight. Maurice Chevalier, idol of two continents France and America will entertain in his latest picture Playboy of Paris. Chevalier has always seemed to us to be just that a playboy of Paris.

Maurice Chevalier.

While making "Playboy of Paris" Chevalier consulted doctors regarding the advisability of an operation to remove a jagged piece of shrapnel he has carried in his left lung since the days of the World war. To remove the fragment might prove fatal, the doctors said, and to leave it where it is will cause him nothing more than an occasional discomfort. Ludwig Berger, director of his latest picture, is a German and bears on his body scars left by French bullets.

NORMA TALMADGE one of the lovely, gracious, stars of the screen, picked a sure-fire title when she started production on her second talking picture, "Du Barry, Woman of Passion," and selected Conrad Nagel and William Farnum as her leading supports. The picture, coming to the Palace Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, marks the return to pictures of William Farnum, last of a long line of actors.

Those who delve into the histories of the French kings know Du Barry, the mistress who later ruled King Louis XV and through him for a time, France.

Miss Talmadge is an expert in the use of costume jewelry. She selects her own, and many of the gems, the antique jewelry and odd pieces which she has collected in the last years, she will wear in her latest love drama.

"WANTED, $5,000 reward for the capture of 'Billy the Kid.'" The girls, yes, they'd go capturing John Mack Brown only too quickly and not bother about the $5,000. "Billy the Kid," just out of the studio, comes to the Palace Friday and Saturday.

Wallace Beery, who gave such a grand characterization of "Butch," in "The Big House," has another big part, that of Garrett, the sheriff who is out for Billy and the money.

"Billy the Kid," occupies a period between "The Covered Wagon" and the present day. It concerns [illegible] in the late 70's when the west had grown both rich and lawless.

Arliss Has Favorite Role in "Old English."

TWO OUTSTANDING pictures to his credit, and an even more outstanding success, "Old English," George Arliss, conceded by the acting profession to be at the very pinnacle of the long, hard road, has brought his best-beloved role to the screen. "Disraeli" and "The Green Goddess" were given ovations by critics, but they've outdone themselves in praise of "Old English." It is a finished, perfect production, they've said.

GEORGE ARLISS

Arliss himself believes "Old English," coming to the Ohio Wednesday and Thursday, to be his best characterization in his long career. According to "Old English," independence is the most precious of all possessions.

A STAGE SHOW, "Sunkist Vanities," is at the Ohio tonight and Tuesday with the picture, "Last of the Lone Wolf." The "Vanities," a presentation show are direct from 26 weeks in Fox theaters and include Rogers Syncopators, Miss Theo Keith, Russell and Mack, California Steppers and Harry Berry, "Jester of ceremonies."

"Last of the Lone Wolf" is the finale of Louis Joseph Vance's series of three action dramas. The first was "The Lone Wolf," and the second, "The Lone Wolf Returns."

Bert Lytell, who has starred in the two previous pictures, and Patsy Ruth Miller have the leading roles. "The Lone Wolf" stories were vastly interesting with their adventures of a gentleman crook.

"PENNY ARCADE," has been brought to the screen as "Sinner's Holiday," with Grant Withers in the leading role, and will be at the Ohio Friday and Saturday. The show is billed as "made for the millions who love detective stories."

A complete amusement park midway, including a penny arcade, photographic gallery, penny pitch, shooting gallery, palace of joy, hot dog stand and other concession booths were constructed on the lot while this picture was being filmed.

Wheeler and Woolsey Funnier Than Ever.

BERT WHEELER and Robert Woolsey are prancing across the Marion theater screen tonight and Tuesday in their latest picture, "Half Shot at Sunrise." With them is Dorothy Lee and a supporting cast of 500.

Several Marion movie fans have seen the film and between laughs explain that it's funnier than the Wheeler-Woolsey first feature-length picture, "The Cuckoos."

To give local color to the picture, Woolsey was born in Cincinnati, but he adds, "Don't blame me—I had parents." Wheeler made his life debut in Patterson, N. J.

Several hundred former American soldiers found jobs for their tin hats in this latest Wheeler-Woolsey comedy, the press sheets say. Hollywood and Los Angeles were scoured from end to end to obtain enough war helmets for the soldiers in the production.

JOHN ERSKINE'S novel, "Sincerity," has been brought to the screen as "A Lady Surrenders," with seven stars, Conrad Nagel, Genevieve Tobin, Basil Rathbone, Rose Hobart Carmel Myers, Vivian Oakland, and Edgar Norton. The picture comes to the Marion Wednesday and Thursday.

The novel "Sincerity," dealt with the marital difficulties of a well-to-do young manufacturer and his wife, a successful novelist. From reviews of the picture, the novel has been brought to the screen with few changes. Conrad Nagel plays the young husband and Rose Hobart his wife.

Vote for Grant E. Mouser, Jr.

For His Second Term as a Member of Congress

Mr. Mouser has conducted a CLEAN CAMPAIGN AND HAS NOT ENGAGED IN PERSONALITIES OR BEEN A PARTY TO MUD-SLINGING. The voter should beware of any eleventh hour attempt to confuse the minds of the people toward the enviable record of public service that he has given to the people of the Eighth Congressional District regardless of their party affiliations. Mr. Mouser believes in humanity and his entire record of public service as City Solicitor of his home city, as Assistant Attorney General of Ohio, and as a Member of Congress, has been devoted to the interests and the welfare of the people.

It has come to his attention that the opposition, in a desperate endeavor to becloud the issues and make people forget the splendid record of personal service made by Mr. Mouser, will carry on a whispering campaign of lies and slander in the closing hours of this campaign against him.

Mr. Mouser's colleagues in the House speak in glowing terms of his record made while serving the people as a new member of Congress. On July 25, 1930, Honorable John Q. Tilson, Republican majority leader, wrote Mr. Mouser as follows:

"Now that the long drawn out session is finally over and I am taking a little rest here in the New Hampshire woods before the next battle begins, I am utilizing this opportunity to write you a word of personal appreciation for uniform kindness, good will, and such help as you were able to give me in my work as floor leader. I congratulate you upon the splendid public service rendered by you during the session."

Mr. Mouser is in receipt of hundreds of letters from people of all walks of life from every part of the District who have written him in appreciation of a personal service rendered them.

Mr. Mouser's motto is to make life just a little brighter and happier for those who may be in need assistance.

Re-elect Mouser in order that he may finish his excellent service in behalf of the people.

The prices of commodities are now down to near pre-war levels, and in many instances far below the figures warranted by production costs. In fact, we believe that prices have reached a level below which they could not safely go for the good of business and the country generally.

Christmas is round the corner and owing to the great curtailment of merchandise production by manufacturers, it stands to reason that there will be a great scarcity of desirable merchandise.

Prices may not be much higher, but there will be difficulty in getting what you want. Therefore, we advise

RADIO OBSERVES TENTH BIRTHDAY

Radio broadcasting celebrated its tenth anniversary yesterday.

It has increased in 10 years from one station—KDKA of Pittsburgh—to 620 stations, in every state and from a handful of amateur experimenters as listeners to a nightly audience approaching 40,000,000.

The initial public broadcast in America was from station KDKA of Westinghouse on Nov. 2, 1920. The broadcast was the returns of the national election when Warren G. Harding defeated James M. Cox. In the nature of an experiment these returns were received by a group of amateurs, equipped with crude sets mostly of their own manufacture, with earphones tightly clamped to their heads.

Except for the most exact work and far-distant reception on short waves, headsets are a thing of the past.

New Members Is Listed on Family Party Program

THE radio listener's lament for something the dials haven't brought forth innumerable times before will be answered by the Brigadiers Quartet during the Frigidaire Period of the Family Party Monday at 9:30 p. m. through station WEAF. They'll sing, among others, one of those they-said-it-couldn't-be-done numbers, "Mardi Gras" from Ferde Grofe's "Mississippi Suite."

Grofe, who came from the Golden West where he played viola in the San Francisco symphony was the first musician to orchestrate popular tunes in concert style, thereby adding much to the controversy of jazz versus the classics.

"Mississippi Suite" a tone journey, is a composition in the jazz idiom.

"Mardi Gras" is a musical picture of the famous festival at New Orleans. Grofe wrote it for orchestra, with no consideration of its vocal possibilities.

ILLINOIS CANDIDATES EXPRESS CONFIDENCE

McCormick, Lewis, O'Neill All Predict Own Election to Senate.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 3—Confidence of victory in tomorrow's senatorial election was expressed at the camps of the three nominees, Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican, James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, and Mrs. Lottie O'Neill, independent.

C. J. Doyle, state Republican chairman, said he expected Congresswoman McCormick to carry downstate by 200,000 votes Tuesday and to retain that plurality after the votes of Cook county (Chicago) are counted.

Thomas J. Donovan, state Democratic chairman, claimed political poltents indicated an even break for former Senator Lewis up to the Cook county line, and a 20,000 plurality for the Democratic standard bearer within the metropolitan area.

Mrs. O'Neill, the Independent-dry candidate, said she considered her chances of victory good but issued no statement as to expected numerical supremacy.

The indications were for weather favorable for a heavy vote.

BOTH CONFIDENT

Pinchot, Hemphill Predict Victory in Race For Governorship of Pa.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 3—Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee, and John Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal, swung into the final day of their campaign for the governorship today, each expressing confidence that they would be returned the winner.

Hemphill claimed a majority, but said he preferred not to "indulge in any bombast" about its size.

Pinchot said "The fight is over. We have won."

Charles Dorrance, state chairman of the Liberal party, said he would be disappointed if Hemphill's majority was less than 150,000.

VOTE TO DECIDE

Heflin's Fiery Campaign for Senate Reelection To Draw Many to Polls.

By The Associated Press

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 3—J. homas Heflin's fiery fight to retain his senatorship in face of a challenge from the party which sponsored him in public office for 34 years will be decided Tuesday by an outpouring of voters, larger, perhaps, than any in the states' history.

The end of Heflin's independent campaign against the regular Democratic nominee found him reiterating a determiantion to demand a senatorial investigation should any evidence of fraud develop in the balloting.

John H. Bankhead of Jasper is the Democratic nominee to succeed Heflin.

EXPECT LARGE VOTE IN CUYAHOGA COUNTY

Bitter Campaigns for Bench Posts To Draw Crowds to Polls.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 3—Once more the Republican organization dominated by Maurice Maschke national committeeman, will face the test of a determined fight in Cuyahoga county which is expected to turn out a record-breaking vote for an "off-year" election tomorrow.

The county fight has been bitter in the contests for prosecutor and the short term appellate judgeship. Ray T. Miller, Democratic prosecutor, is opposed for a second term by Arthur H. Day, Republican; while Common Pleas Judge Carl V. Weygandt and John A. Cline are battling for the court of appeals post.

Cline was appointed by Governor Cooper to fill out the term of Appellate Judge John J. Sullivan who died last September. He is a Republican and Weygandt a Democrat.

The struggle for the prosecutor's office has been intense, with Day charging Miller with "fixing" a number of cases and Miller retaliating with attacks on Days record as a former state senator.

Marion Man Candidate for Class Office

Harry A. Dorsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Dorsey of 293 South Vine street is a candidate for the office of treasurer of the sophomore class at Ohio State university. Candidates were required to file petitions for the annual elections Wednesday. Officers of the four classes will be elected.

There are three other men up for election to the office for which Dorsey is a candidate.

H. L. Latimer of Kenton is a candidate for vice president of the junior class.

CONTINUES ATTACKS

By International News Service

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 3—Counter attacks in the court battle over the proxies voted in favor of the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, were continued here today as Attorney Howard Burns, Cleveland, took the floor in common pleas court to complete his closing argument in behalf of the pro-merger forces, or the defendants in the injunction suit to block the consolidation.

Sports Editor, The Star

FOLLOWING a week of comparative inactivity, twelve of league battles were carried N. C. O. grid aggregations will square off this Saturday to determine the final series of contests to decide from which school the pole will float the emblem symbolic of the 1930 championship of the circuit.

Five of the six members of the league will participate in games this week, four engaging in league frays. Harding High alone will rest, the open date incidentally being the only weekend off for the locals in a tough nine game schedule.

The two N. C. O. battles will see Mansfield opposing Chuck Young's Shelby Whippets at Shelby and Ashland entertaining the unbeaten Galion Orangemen at Ashland.

The Galion-Ashland game will undoubtedly be the top-notch attraction of the schedule. The two teams are now deadlocked for the top spot with two victories and one tie game each and either may win this week.

Tygers Play Shelby

Before Mansfield took its staggering blow from Harding last Friday in the form of a 6-6 tie, the Murphey team was a heads-on choice to wallop the weak Shelby team without difficulty. Now that it has been proven that the team which had almost cinched its right to be called the weakest team in the circuit could rise to the occasion and deadlock the Tygers, it is rather difficult to say just what Shelby will do.

It might be that Harding's excellent showing will give the Whippets the added confidence necessary to enable them to do the same thing and then again it may be that the Harding deadlock will so enrage the Tyger as to cause it to emit one fierce growl and completely annihilate the Whippets. The latter seems more logical although just at present no probable winner will be listed.

Harding's next game will be Nov. 15 on Fairground field with Shelby providing the opposition so the outcome of the Mansfield-Shelby tilt will be watched with extreme interest by local sports followers. A victory over Shelby is the only possibility of the Presidents getting out of the cellar and even that cannot be accomplished should Shelby upset Mansfield for a Whippet victory Saturday.

Julion Foster, 215-pound end at Vanderbilt, is Young Stribling's double. In Atlanta, his home town, he frequently is taken for Willie.

Intersectional Games Provide Major Interest

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 3—The major share of middle western football interest next Saturday will be focused on the east where four standard bearers from this section will conduct raids.

There will be two strictly Big Ten contests, Northwestern playing at Indiana and Purdue meeting Chicago. Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin will be occupied with non-conference foes, but the invasions into the east by Michigan, Illinois, Ohio State and Notre Dame will get the bulk of the attention.

Michigan, victorious over Harvard by the margin of a point after touchdown a year ago, will go to Cambridge seeking a second straight triumph.

The Wolverine figures to be a slight favorite over Harvard.

Army vs. Illini

Another return engagement in a series in which the Big Ten has the edge, will be played in the Yankee stadium between Army and Illinois. The Illini generated enough power to whip Red Cagle and the West Pointers, 17 to 7, in 1929, but with three straight defeats marring their record, hardly shape up as strong enough to take the powerful Cadet eleven.

Notre Dame's host appears good for its sixth straight triumph, at the expense of Pennsylvania in Franklin Field Saturday. The Irish have successfully battered their way through the first half of that murderous 10-game schedule and will be favored to take the Quakers.

The fourth midwest campaigner in the east will be Ohio State which will tackle Navy at Baltimore. The Buckeyes surprised the experts by holding Wisconsin to a scoreless tie last week, and if their attack gains consistency, should chalk up another victory for this part of the country.

Marquette Meets Iowa

Iowa, surprise victor over the University of Detroit Saturday, will tackle another tough one this week in Marquette.

Minnesota will entertain South Dakota, and Wisconsin will be host to South Dakota State college.

Northwestern will battle Indiana, its three-year jinx, without Pug Rentner, the big fullback who was injured at Minnesota Saturday, but should have little trouble with the fighting Hoosiers and Purdue should have no more difficulty in beating Chicago.

Northwestern's easy victory over Minnesota reduced the Big Ten championship struggle to two teams — Michigan and Northwestern, each of which has won three straight games.

Purdue looked more like the conference champion of 1929 Saturday against Illinois, than at any time this season. Paced by a substitute halfback, Eddie Risk, the Boilermakers functioned smoothly and scored once a period to overcome the stubborn, but ragged Illini 25 to 0.

Marion County High School Cage Tournies Abolished

NUMEROUS CHANGES MADE IN RULES FOR LOCAL COMPETITION

Teams Limited to 11 Games for Season; Group Split into Sections.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

WITH the major portion of the tentative schedule which included games by a dividing High team now definitely on Presidents that week have a well earned respite from the rigors of the grid pastime. It is quite possible that the team members for the most part will request the role of the taxicab driver who on a first day off in 10 years went for an automobile ride with his wife and 10 children.

As Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio State are both invading foreign fields for the week's contests, it is very likely that a small percentage of the fans out of the local will see the contestants so scarcely to witness the opponents of the next week in action against the Mansfield Tygers. Such a trip can hardly do other than aid the players in their battle with Shelby the next Saturday and it may also provide them a chance to see a fairly good football game. The latter however is not nearly so likely as the former.

The week off should do Harding a lot of good. A victory over Shelby and a tie with Mansfield would go a lot towards erasing a share of the slipshod which goes with being ranked around all the league for two years. Of course a win over Springfield in the final game of the year would also help a lot but that would not count in the final standings of the N. C. O. league.

County Cage Program Curtailed This Yea

If the action of the Marion County Athletic Association is any indication of the trend of Ohio high school sports, at least in basketball, the cage sport is due for some serious curtailments within a few years. The schedule, found elsewhere on this page, listing playing dates of the local county schools for the coming winter reveals two salient facts.

One is that the schedule is considerably shortened over that of previous years and the other is that there will be no county tournament among the county teams as has been the custom heretofore.

As for the girl cagers, a curtailment of activity is even more evident. No county tournament will be played and no playoff will be contested between those two teams which finish highest in their respective sections. This action in eliminating the girls tourney follows an announcement made last season by the Ohio State High School Athletic Association to the effect that in the future all girls' tournaments would probably be abolished. It seems to be the consensus among the athletic heads and also doctors that too much competitive athletics is harmful to high school girls. There are those who go so far as to recommend the elimination of all high school athletics for girls. Such a drastic move however has not found particular favor among the officials.

Whether or not the elimination of either the boys or the girls tournaments will aid the students is not for the editor of this column to consider. One thing certain however to be destroyed by their abolition is a lot of keen competition and rivalry which are always a part of county tournies. The tournaments will be missed a lot by local cafe enthusiasts.

Unbeaten Team List Is Reduced to Sixteen

By The Associated Press

The national list of undefeated and untied football teams has been reduced to 16.

Oklahoma City university has scored more victories than any other college winning seven games without a defeat or tie. Six major teams are deadlocked for second place on the list with six victories apiece. Tulsa is at the bottom with four victories. Utah's Indians lead the unbeaten in scoring with a total of 224 points to 18 for their opponents. Only Fordham has an unbroken goal line. One safety has been scored against Fordham.

HOW THEY STAND

By The Associated Press

East—Fordham remains alone of the few unbeaten teams with six straight victories. Army and Lafayette have not been defeated but have been tied. Princeton, Penn, Detroit and a host of others have been defeated. Fordham's unbeaten team, Army's unbeaten nation of football, Princeton's unbeaten steamrolling machine, Detroit and the weekly upsets all rate high on the week's menu.

Big Ten—Northwestern, a team with Michigan for the real affair, has won three and tied two conference games left. Northwestern meets Indiana this week, Michigan plays Harvard.

Southern Conference—A change is far ahead in the race with four victories. Tulane is tied with Georgia and the latter has no conference foe left to play this year.

Big Six—Oklahoma leads with three victories after beating Iowa State field for Kansas has a chance to make it eight this week and the only meeting Nebraska.

Pacific Coast—Washington State has strengthened its championship prospects by beating Oregon State 14-7. Southern California-California and Stanford-Washington games mark the schedule this week.

Southwest Conference—Southern Methodist has been eliminated from the race by a 26-7 defeat from Texas.

TO INVADE EAST

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3—Bo McMillin and the Kansas Aggies this week again carry the conference of Big Six football into the east, invading Morgantown for a game with West Virginia, in a region where McMillin successfully coached Geneva college before coming to the Kansas prairies.

There is a great deal of meaningless music, but it is not so easy to expose as meaningless poetry.

FAVOR BOBCATS TO AGAIN TAKE CROWN

Ohio Has Only Denison and Wesleyan To Defeat for Second Title.

BY LATHROP MACH
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3—Ohio [illegible] apparently is destined for the championship mantle of the Buckeye conference Friday for the Northwestern conference and nearly half a dozen teams to strive over supremacy in the championship Ohio conference campaign.

The Athens Bobcats who walloped Cincinnati Saturday, 45 to 0 [illegible] next week-end in what is to be an easy game and [illegible] have only Ohio Wesleyan to contend with. Nov. 22. Miami, Cincinnati and Denison have all been defeated.

Ohio can clinch the northwestern championship by defeating Bluffton which hasn't won a game all season on Nov. 14. Findlay will finish Otterbein, 13 to 12 last Saturday while Toledo was springing the only upset of the day in holding Bowling Green to a 0 to 0 draw.

As for the Ohio conference season involving no championship because of the unwieldy nature of its 14 teams there are several worthy of being labeled "the strongest team." Akron, Ashland, Dayton, Heidelberg and Muskingum have all been defeated by another conference team while Heidelberg and Muskingum are not likely to be.

Plenty of excitement is on hand for the coming week-end.

Miami-Wesleyan

First, there will be the Miami-Ohio Wesleyan game. The game will be played at Oxford. Both warmed up by trouncing Ohio conference teams, Miami beating Ashland 48 to 0 and Wesleyan taking over Western Reserve 41 to 14. It was Ashland's first defeat of the year.

Ohio University plays Denison which defeated Otterbein 19 to 10 last week. The game incidentally marked Denison's first victory of the year. Cincinnati meets Villanova.

Half a dozen close games are scheduled in the Ohio conference particularly the Dayton-Notre Dame game in Cincinnati and the Muskingum-Wooster game in Wooster. Dayton and Xavier will play for the governor's cup in a close battle while Muskingum will be heavily favored to beat Wooster.

Mounts Play Kenyon

Mount Union plays Kenyon, Hiram meets Baldwin-Wallace, Akron goes to Akron, Otterbein to Ashland and Oberlin to Western Reserve for games which should be tough. The Mounts will be favored against Kenyon which however held Capital's undefeated team to a 13 to 13 tie Saturday.

Akron, undefeated and not tied should beat Case. Ashland ought to take Otterbein while Western Reserve is more than likely to end its famine of defeat against Oberlin.

Capital plays Kent. Heidelberg's triumphant team meets Adrian and Michigan, after defeating Ohio Northern 45 to 0 last week, and should win again.

Western Maryland, one of the best teams in the east, invades John Carroll for an easy victory probably, while Oglethorpe, one of the strong southern teams meets Wittenberg and may set back the Springfielders again.

CROP ESTIMATE STARTS SLUMP

Expectation of Larger Corn Crop Than Reported Causes General Decline.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 — Grain values tended downward early today influenced by current belief that all the monthly crop estimates would forecast corn production larger than 2,000,000,000 bushels. The average of the unofficial estimates issued today was 2,040,000,000 bushels compared with an unofficial average of 2,003,000,000 bushels a month ago. Starting unchanged to ¾c off, corn prices later showed an all around sag. Wheat opened ¼@⅝c down, and subsequently declined further.

As analyzed by a leading unofficial crop expert, one who today estimated the 1931 corn yield at 2,025,000,000 bushels, the production was 22½ per cent less than last year and 25 per cent less than a five year average. The yield per acre was 19.9 bushels against a 10-year average of 28 bushels, and the quality 77.5 per cent of normal, against 80.2 last year and 89.7 per cent, a 10-year average. The proportion of new corn fed before Nov. 1 was estimated at 7.2 per cent of the crop, against an average of about 5.2 per cent.

The amount of old corn at present on hand was unofficially estimated at 85,000,000 bushels compared with 76,000,000 bushels a year ago and 102,000,000 bushels, the average of the preceding years. The proportion put into silos was given as 5.7 per cent, against an average of 4.2 per cent. Improvement of the corn crop as compared to a month ago was attributed to excellent weather, the entire crop maturing without any frost damage. Argentine reports of colder weather unfavorable for development of rust counted as a bearish factor as to wheat. Oats sympathized with price setbacks of other cereals.

Provisions were firmer, responsive to a rise in hog values.

CLUBHOUSE BURNS

Columbus Elks Country Home Destroyed; Loss Set at $125,000.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3—The Columbus Elks country club was destroyed by fire of unknown origin last night. John A. Downey, club manager, estimated the loss at $125,000.

Starting in the basement about 8 p. m. the blaze soon enveloped the building, located nine miles north of the city, and burned for two hours before it was brought under control. Firemen were obliged to stretch hose 5,000 feet to the structure.

Ernest Timberlake, night manager, was awakened by smoke that filled the building. With Lawrence Huber, greenskeeper, he went to the basement and tried to put out the blaze before firemen arrived. Before retiring, Timberlake had banked the furnace fire for the night.

SCOUT ACTIVITIES QUIET DURING WEEK

Marion Troops Have Little of Importance on Programs at Meetings.

Activities within the local Boy Scout troops were at a lower ebb during the last week than for any like period of time for several months. Hallowe'en celebrations occupie so much of the time of the members that little more than routine business was transacted by a majority of the troops.

Troop 15 of Fite Memorial Baptist church which met on Monday with Scoutmaster Harold Williams in charge was the most active. The troop planned an over-night hike for the near future to be held at the Boy Scout camp. The troop's grid team will play a game with Troop 10 Tuesday afternoon. Plans were made for several advancements in rank before the coming Court of Honor.

Address Troop

Scout Executive W. C. Brown and the local naval recruting officer, Thomas O. Bowers both spoke to the members of Troop 5 at last week's meeting. A Hallowe'en party was held in conjunction with the meeting. Signaling and fire by friction demonstrations were held.

Pass Test

Y. M. C. A. troop No. 6 in charge of Jim Baker and R. N. Heininger passed the scout pace test on the Y. track last week.

Practice First Aid

Troop 5 of Epworth M. E church practiced first aid measures and also completed some first class scouting tests in last week's meeting.

Plan Next Meet

Troop 1 of the Y. M. C. A. in charge of Henry Mickley went through first aid demonstrations and other scout work and made plans for a more active meeting next time.

Hold Party

Troop 16 of St. Marys church also combined a Hallowe'en party with its regular meeting last week. No scouting business of importance was transacted.

Hold No Meetings

Tropos 13 of Emanuel church and 2 of Spanish American War Vets held no meetings on account of Hallowe'en. Troops 4 and 10 combined held a Hallowe'en party at Camp John A. Owens. They were in charge of Harry Woodell and Roy Converse.

Abyssinia Crowns New Emperor and Empress

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Nov 3—Not until dawn today did this ancient capital and the hundreds of thousands gathered here quit their celebration of the coronation of Abyssinia's emperor and empress, and seek sleep.

Nearly exhausted by a night-long vigil of prayer, Ras Tafari Makonnen, who claims descent from Solomon and the Queen of Sheba and his wife, Princess Waziru Menen, were taken at daybreak yesterday from the nationa cathedral to the nearby especially built coronation hall where they were crowned the three hundred and thirty-fourth rulers of the oldest kingdom in the world.

Undergoes Operation—Mrs. S. G. Romoser of 315 Forest street, is reported to be resting comfortably at White Cross hospital in Columbus, following an abdominal operation there Saturday morning.

Unique Locomotive in Use on Erie Lines Here

The Erie railroad this week took over the operation of an experimental locomotive equipped throughout with Timken roller bearings. This locomotive, the only one of its kind, is being furnished various railroad companies for 30 day periods to test on their roads in freight and passenger service.

In the last 30 days, the roller bearing-equipped engine has been powering the Sportsman crack passenger train of the C. & O. road through Marion.

Fifty-three other manufacturers of locomotive specialties cooperated in the construction of this special locomotive, making it an ideal test car for railroads. L. W. Toban, representative of the Timken Bearing Co. of Canton, accompanies the locomotive at all times.

28 Engines Delivered

Twenty-eight of the 60 special locomotives being built at Lima for the C. & O. railroad, each of which is said to be capable of pulling 150-car trains, have been delivered. The latest of the 28 arrived last week.

Protect Crossings

Marion railroad intersections and crossings of interurban and railroad tracks of the C. & O. railroad will be given the benefit of the latest developments of crossing service in the near future.

Steel used in railroad intersections is considerably tougher than regular rails, but the crossings are rapidly worn away, and pounded out of shape by the constant thumping of steel wheels. Recently an electric welding machine has been perfected to build up the worn "frogs."

This apparatus will be brought to Marion shortly and will be used to repair "frogs" here.

Take Trains Off

Several changes in the local schedule of the Big Four railroad was effective Nov. 2 at 1:01 a. m.

Eastbound train No. 22 due here at 8:28 p. m. and train No. 9 due here at 2:50 a. m. will be discontinued. Train No. 3 due here daily at 3 p. m. will be changed to leave at 3:13 p. m. Train No. 31 due at 8:36 p. m. will be changed to leave at 8:45 p. m.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Nov. 4

THE rather adverse conditions indicated by the unpropitious transits of Luna may react on business as well as purely personal activities. In the realm of domestic, social, affectional affairs there may be inharmonies and stress. Money matters are also under an afflicting ray, threatening loss of money, as well as prestige, power and general well-being. There is hint of duplicity, fraud and sinister attack which may enhance the anxiety. It would be well to be on guard.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year calling for patience, optimism and sound judgment to keep it from personal inharmonies and business frustrations. Sickness or domestic anxiety are probable and loss of money or standing are possible unless precautions be taken, with an alertness against fraud, treachery and subtle machinations.

A child born on this day may require early discipline and education in prudence, frugality and self-government, since it may have proclivities of extravagance, overindulgence and strong incitements to move in "the easiest way." It may lean toward furtive and fugitive methods, peculiar if not sordid.

Miss Helen Sherer and Mrs. Norman Conrad of Bucyrus were slightly injured in an automobile accident on North Main street yesterday at 4 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Conrad, Miss Sherer and P. R. Morris also of Bucyrus, were coming into Marion and were traveling in a line of traffic. A car came out of a side street and before either driver could stop, the Conrad machine had struck the other car broadside. The jar threw the occupants of the Conrad car forward.

Dr. A. A. Starner, the attending physician, reported that Mrs. Conrad sustained an injury to her leg and bruises and that Miss Sherer suffered a bad bump on her head and body bruises. Neither machine was badly damaged.

average for city school districts in this state.

"Marion schools are now operated at a very low cost per pupil as compared with other city school districts and at about two-thirds of the state average.

"This levy is a very large proportion (40 per cent) of the total current expenses of the schools.

"The present school program is the least that it can be if Marion is to retain its first-grade rank for the high school and elementary schools."

There are no other sources from which to obtain the funds necessary for the operation of the schools. State aid is not given to city school districts except for special classes for handicapped children. Federal aid cannot be obtained except under the Smith-Hughes act and this school district is already receiving all that it can get under this law for vocational education.

School funds are expended in a business-like way. Debts are not made either for supplies or services unless funds are on hand to meet them. No obligations are carried over from one year into the next.

To wait for action of the legislature in making a new tax[illegible] system will not solve the problem of financing the school program this year and until such legislation goes into effect two years and probably more will pass before a new system is put into force in Ohio. Any levies voted under the present system will be void under the new plan unless special provision is made in the new law to continue them for the period of readjustment and this is doubtful.

Marion's public schools are one of its most valuable public institutions. With a comparatively small investment Marion has a school system in which it may take pride and which will compare favorably with other city systems of like size and similar educational needs. Marion does not want to give its boys and girls less.

senate to aid the president. Bulkley criticised the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill as one of the principal factors in bringing on the present business depression and unemployment. McCulloch defended it claiming the tariff had aided American industry by its protection.

Governor Cooper will bring his campaign to a close tonight with an address at a Republican rally here which will be broadcast from WLW and WIAU. White ended his campaign here Saturday night and Bulkley ended his with two addresses in Toledo at the same time.

Statements from both campaign headquarters expressed confidence in the result of tomorrow's balloting while the secretary of state's office predicted a record off-presidential year vote, George M. Neffner, statistician in the office, predicting a vote of 2,093,000.

As the campaign entered its final stages, state headquarters of both major parties issued statements telling the voters to be watchful of eleventh hour efforts to discredit the opposing candidates.

Warnings Issued

Henry G. Brunner, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, said last minute propaganda and appeals to prejudices had made their appearances. He urged the electors to "disregard these efforts to deceive and cast their ballots on the campaign issues."

A similar statement was issued last week by Earl R. Lewis, Republican state campaign manager, who charged "a series of vicious political falsehoods from Democratic sources designed to misrepresent" Governor Cooper and others were to be circulated.

night and stole 20 men's suits valued at approximately $400, it was reported today to Sheriff John J. Francis.

Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in the front door, a piece of tile enclosed in a gunny sack being used for the purpose. Blood stains were found on the broken glass this morning when E. A. Burson, the proprietor, discovered the burglary.

The theft occurred between yesterday at 9 p. m. and today at 6 a. m, Burson told Sheriff Francis. A son, Bert, who is a partner in the business, visited the store last night at 9 o'clock and nothing had been disturbed at that time.

Sheriff Francis also was investigating today the theft of 21 chickens from the farm of Neil Gwyer on the Kenton road last night.

Nelson J. Hougland, department press commander, also of Cleveland, was among the delegates.

Mayor L. Don Jones paid tribute to the memory of President Harding in a brief address that was a part of the ceremonies. He pointed to Harding as a martyr of his country and a man who gave his dying efforts to meet the heavy responsibilities of his office.

Rev. L. A. Wood of the Trinity Baptist church conducted a short prayer service preceding the ceremonies and spoke benediction immediately after the short talks.

A number of other wreaths were placed on the memorial yesterday. One of these was brought to Marion by two Boy Scouts of Cincinnati who make an annual pilgrimage to this city on the anniversary of Harding's birth.

A wreath from President Hoover was placed on the memorial yesterday afternoon by Hoke Donithen, secretary of the Harding Memorial association. Several other wreaths were brought to the memorial during the day.

reduce the Republican senate majority almost, if not entirely, to the vanishing point.

32 To Name Governors

Similarly, in more than half of the 32 states which elect governors tomorrow, the final communiques from party headquarters showed both sides claiming victory. In this disputed territory lives vastly more than half of the country's population, for it included, among others, the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and Ohio.

While every state but Maine, which elects in September, will vote for members of the house, the districts listed as really debatable number something less than 100 out of the total of 435. In their assault upon these districts, the Democrats have sought to raid the Republican picket lines from coast to coast, but the major force of their attack has fallen in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and Missouri. It is in these states they center their highest hopes.

Similarly, the Democratic expectations in the senate rest principally on less than a dozen contests out of the 35. They have made determined attacks in Massachusetts, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Illinois and Rhode Island.

Daily Proverb—"None more apt to boast than those who have least real worth."

The cigar factories of Tampa, Florida, are working overtime. In time of economic depression we may cut out the luxuries, but simply can not forego the necessities of life.

Los Angeles reported a temperature of ninety-two degrees, last week, marking the fifth day of a warm spell. Isn't the great Pacific winter resort overdoing the balmy weather business a bit?

Granted a divorce by a Paris court from Prince Serge Mdivani, Pola Negri rejoices that she is now free to consecrate her life "entirely to art." Seems to us that life-to-art-consecration stuff has done duty before.

An Iowa man of twenty-nine was haled into court out in Cedar Rapids, a day or two ago, charged with deserting his fourth wife. He must imagine that the matrimonial game is one in which the player has to progress to get the prize.

It has been developed that the New York World paid Ralph S. Kelley $10,000 for his story containing charges of mal-administration in connection with the government's oil shale lands in western Colorado. Ten thousands dollars, it may be said, is two and a half times the annual salary Kelley was drawing from the government while writing it and concealing his charges from government officials. That comes pretty close to telling the story.

Dr. Gifford Gordon, of Philadelphia, told an Alliance noonday luncheon club that the Canadian handling of the liquor evil had not eliminated the bootlegger, the hip flask toter or the speakeasy up there. The doctor might safely have gone further and said that it had even accentuated their activities.

New York City is planning to feed 15,000 men daily throughout the coming winter. New York City will not be alone in this respect. In a somewhat lesser degree it will be the course of all the great cities of the land, and many of the smaller cities and villages, for that matter.

The Los Angeles man who found a fifteen-flat apartment building on what he thought was his vacant lot has no particular reason to complain, but the man who constructed the building, believing that the deed to the lot was genuine, certainly has a cause for grief. So frequent has become the forging of deeds, that it might be well were this country to adopt a system similar to that of Canada under which all deeds come from the government.

A Change in Indian Government.

Regardless of what may be the outcome of the Gandhi civil disobedience campaign in India, the present outlook is that that land is soon to experience a momentuous change in its system of government, which will come as the result of a compromise on the part of the princes there between their desire to preserve their independence and the desire of British Indians for a supreme central government.

The Indian princes have been holding meetings in London preparatory to the round table conference which is to open there November 12 at which they have framed a plan, the details of which are to be worked out in greater detail before the opening of the conference and following conferences with representatives of British India. The proposed plan, which was outlined at a meeting at which all the prime ministers of Indian states and the princes were present, provides for seven governmental principles. They are:

1. Full provincial autonomy.
2. Responsible central government.
3. A central federal council including representatives of the princes and British India.
4. Allocation by statute of control of all India and provincial matters.
5. A federal council empowered to deal with all disputes between states and British India.
6. A supreme court, which will be the final authority for the interpretation of treaties.
7. An all-Indian cabinet, with Indian ministers holding all portfolios, but during the transitional period the viceroy to retain veto power.

The compromise is said to have resulted from the efforts of the Gaekwar of Baroda, one of the most enlightened men of India and probably closer in touch with the present-day world trend toward democracy than any other Indian, who frankly told the princes that they had to march with the procession and recognize the growth of democracy or "lose their jobs." The Gaekwar of Baroda is generally credited with being ready and willing, if necessary, to give up princely privileges, which, as exercised in India, are practically, if not wholly, royal, to secure a united India. That he was able to influence the princes into agreement on the compromise outlined attests his ability. In his success another illustration is offered of what may be accomplished by one willing to surrender authority, power, and what he has long held his personal interests for the general good.

Reason Over Emotion.

Tomorrow, voters in Ohio and many other states will perform the highest obligation of Americacan citizenship at the polls.

Each voter must evaluate to the best of his ability all that he has heard and seen in the campaigns which have been staged for his benefit. He should weed out prejudice and attempt to place reason higher than emotion.

If it were possible to withdraw to some eminence from which the pre-political situation could be viewed with the proper perspective it would be much easier to vote intelligently. Such perspective, however, can only be gained in most cases months or even years after the election.

The Star, basing its judgment on the qualifications of the two senatorial candidates, Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch and Robert J. Bulkley, and adopting a non-partisan attitude as nearly as possible, believes that Senator McCulloch deserves to be returned to the senate. He has promised nothing out of reason. His opinions on the important issues of the day are sound. He has not, either through conviction or expediency, aligned himself with the faction working to repeal the eighteenth amendment before any one knows what could take its place. We do not indorse him primarily because he is a dry, but because he has taken a sensible attitude toward a problem which can not be solved by the mere dissolution of the legislation pertaining to it. All who would rather eat food than drink alcohol owe it to themselves to consider his candidacy seriously—to look at it with the proper perspective.

The Star indorses also the candidacy of Grant E. Mouser, Jr., for representative from the Eighth district. Mr. Mouser has served the district well for one term, and has earned favorable recognition.

In the gubernatorial contest, Governor Myers Y. Cooper appears to be the better man. His opponent has tried to show that Mr. Cooper's administration has been uneconomical, but without success. It was his only argument, and it stands discredited.

Much depends on tomorrow's vote. It can only be urged again that it be cast with more attention to reason than emotion.

Speaking about iron nerve, Dr. Arturo Benavidz, the former secretary of President Irigoyen, of Argentina, made a demand on the Argentinian treasury for $92.43 he held due him for the five days he held the job in September before the rebels took over the government, and the oddest phase of the thing is that he got the money. Down in South America, seemingly, a little thing like a revolution isn't supposed to affect matters of a purely business nature.

Football and Charity.

The Western conference, commonly known as the "Big Ten," has a vast deal of explaining ahead of its attempts to justify its refusal to allow Northwestern university, one of its members, to play Notre Dame at Soldier Field, Chicago, part of the proceeds to go to charity.

Soldier Field can accommodate approximately 60,000 more persons than the Northwestern stadium, where the game is scheduled to be played. Receipts from the extra seats were to go to Catholic, Jewish and United charities.

Jealousy of gate receipts, jealousy of authority, unwillingness to establish a precedent which might lead to extended post-season schedules, and a general disinclination to depart from the customary procedure seem to have influenced the decision, subscribed to by every university but Northwestern. None of the reasons, however, seems to be legitimate, chiefly because the game will be played anyway and in such a manner that it will be classified as one of the season's outstanding spectacles. If it were the intention of the "Big Ten" to discourage highly-commercialized football, it selected an inopportune occasion. The entire country is keenly aware of the present demands being made upon charity, and it was estimated that a first-class game at Soldier Field would have brought at least $150,000 to the cause of charity in Chicago.

It is probable that the unpopular Western conference decision is the first shot in the annual fall offensive against football as played today in American universities

The supreme court of Illinois has approved the application of the vagrancy law to the modern type of moneyed hoodlums and gangsters, which is being utilized in Chicago's campaign against her "public enemies." Here's a rule worth considering: the higher the court, the farther it is removed from political influence.

The federal census bureau announces that in 1929 the people of the United States consumed 1,153,319,564 pounds of breakfast foods, 16,269,445 pounds of coffee substitutes, 157,543,907 pounds of prepared flour for pancakes and other cereals of an estimated value in excess of $30,000,000. How did we ever get along before the census people made it their business to go into these intimate little details of the national breakfast?

Representatives of the various trans-atlantic steamship lines in session in Paris are considering drastic reductions in first-class rates to stay the movement from first-class passages to the cabin ships. The traveling public evidently is learning that the swank of the first-class transportation isn't worth the double price demanded for it.

"To a large section of the American people," says Preston W. Slosson, "a law is a public New Year's resolution to be enacted in a glow of moral enthusiasm, observed for a short period, and then forgotten." The present trouble with one large section of the American people, however, is that there is one law which was enacted in a glow of moral enthusiasm, which another large section of the American people will not let it forget.

The two-funneled British warship, Lupon, having been replaced on the Iraqi coast by the one-funneled warship, Folkestone, British residents along the Persian gulf are fearful that Britain may lose caste in the eyes of the natives, who will be liable to assume that the change signifies that Britain is on the down grade. The story reads like a joke, but it's so little a joke that hereafter British warships for service on the Persian gulf will be two-funneled, even though one funnel is a dummy.

AID FOR THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

Every prospect pleases in the Virgin islands, but man is having a bad time of it. The United States assumed an obligation to improve the condition of their inhabitants. They have not been neglected, but congress has not done enough for their development. The decline of the population since 1917 indicates that something is wrong. When "Old Dannebrog" was hauled down and "Old Glory" took its place, the population was 26,051; it is now 22,012. The greatest loss has been 4,039 in St. Croix.

In his report for 1930, Captain Evans of the navy says that the sugar industry of St. Croix has reached a crisis, and that "with world shipping at a low ebb the maritime activity of St. Thomas has declined materially." He urges more liberal appropriations for the islands. Governor Evans points out that the additional burden to the taxpayers of the United States will be slight in comparison with the calamitous results of the present inadequate financial support.

The picture is not wholly dark. The bay rum industry is now prospering. This has been a record year for production and sales. It is believed that the live stock industry will benefit greatly by gifts of animals from the department of agriculture. An appropriation by congress provides for aid to homesteaders, agricultural projects at the experimental station of St. Croix and expansion of the agricultural and vocational school. The islands are now in communication with the United States, South and Central America by airplanes that arrive biweekly. Twenty individuals own ninety per cent. of the land in St. Croix. During the economic stress the Red Cross saved thousands of the colored people of St. Croix from starvation. In the doubt about rehabilitation of the sugar industry it is expedient to turn to homesteading to relieve the necessitous and make them self-supporting. But if congress does not increase appropriations, the Virgin islands will go from bad to worse.—New York Times.

Religion and Education in 1825.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

The controversy over mingling religion with general education in the educational institutions of the state is no new development. When the first movement looking toward the establishment of what is now Western Reserve college was made back in 1825, the projectors of that institutions ran against the sentiment in the legislature from which a charter to do business must be obtained.

The legislature required a statement fully setting forthe the objects and purposes with a list of persons who were to constitute the first board of trustees, their occupations, etc., to accompany the petition for the charter, and in this case the statement showed that half the gentlemen suggested for trustees were ministers of the gospel. This would naturally be expected from a community of people from New England, where the idea was well established that religion and education should go hand in hand.

But there were some wilful gentlemen in the legislature at that time who felt that the church should keep her hands off education, whether it be in the public schools or the more or less private institutions of higher education, such as this was to be, and they refused the charter on that ground.

The people of the Western Reserve had no intention of changing this part of their plan, nor did they for one minute think of dropping the enterprise. A committee consisting of Judge Brown and Rev. Caleb Pitkin, a lawyer and a preacher, was sent to Columbus to try to get the charter bill through. They had been on the ground but a few days until Judge Brown advised Rev. Mr. Pitkin to return home for the reason that he felt sure a sinner like himself should do more with that legislature than a preacher could. Rev. Mr. Pitkin returned and Judge Brown got the charter.

AID FOR THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

Every prospect pleases in the Virgin islands, but man is having a bad time of it. The United States assumed an obligation to improve the condition of their inhabitants. They have not been neglected, but congress has not done enough for their development. The decline of the population since 1917 indicates that something is wrong. When "Old Dannebrog" was hauled down and "Old Glory" took its place, the population was 26,051; it is now 22,012. The greatest loss has been 4,039 in St. Croix.

In his report for 1930, Captain Evans of the navy says that the sugar industry of St. Croix has reached a crisis, and that "with world shipping at a low ebb the maritime activity of St. Thomas has declined materially." He urges more liberal appropriations for the islands. Governor Evans points out that the additional burden to the taxpayers of the United States will be slight in comparison with the calamitous results of the present inadequate financial support.

The picture is not wholly dark. The bay rum industry is now prospering. This has been a record year for production and sales. It is believed that the live stock industry will benefit greatly by gifts of animals from the department of agriculture. An appropriation by congress provides for aid to homesteaders, agricultural projects at the experimental station of St. Croix and expansion of the agricultural and vocational school. The islands are now in communication with the United States, South and Central America by airplanes that arrive biweekly. Twenty individuals own ninety per cent. of the land in St. Croix. During the economic stress the Red Cross saved thousands of the colored people of St. Croix from starvation. In the doubt about rehabilitation of the sugar industry it is expedient to turn to homesteading to relieve the necessitous and make them self-supporting. But if congress does not increase appropriations, the Virgin islands will go from bad to worse.—New York Times.

Winter Vacations.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Everybody is interested in the idea of a vacation. When we speak about vacations we usually have in mind the summer season, with the beach, and the sports that are popular at that time of the year. It is unfortunate that this is the conception we have, but usually it can not be helped. "Big Business" requires our taking vacations when business demands are most lax. But, please bear in mind, winter and fall and spring are just as suitable as summer for the much desired and much needed rest.

The primary purpose of a vacation is relaxation. The rest, change and acquired storage of health send us back to our daily routine of work with vim and vigor.

When we think of vacation time we imagine only the most delightful pictures of having a good time. To one it means swimming, to another golf, and to another ice sports.

There are a few simple rules to think about when planning a vacation. First, for the average man who has only two or three weeks doubtless it is best to try to take his vacation in late August or September. It is still better, if at all possible, to split the vacation, taking half in summer and the remainder in winter. Four weeks vacation out of a working year is not a day too much. A great many persons feel that they get the effect of a vacation by taking week-ends now and then. I do not consider this adequate for the average hard-working individual.

If I had my way, every housewife, every farmer, every laborer, as well as the clerks and business people, would enjoy the physical and mental benefits of a real vacation. If it had no other benefits, the increased appreciation of home would make it worth while.

It is important to take great care in the selection of food when vacationing. Eat moderately and mostly of fresh vegetables and fruits until you have become accustomed to the change of food and climate. Remember to drink plenty of water.

Do not over-exercise. Increase your activity in whatever sport you are interested, but do it gradually. Rest is as important as exercise. Please don't forget this. An afternoon nap should be part of the daily program. Do not feel that you must be doing something every moment of the day.

Walking is the most healthful and most inexpensive form of exercise. It is by no means an old man's form of exercise. At all ages great benefit may be derived from it, particularly when walking through meadows and woods.

Stay out in the sun much of the time, but this practice must be begun in moderation. Severe sunburn is most painful and at times dangerous. Sun baths taken in moderation have been scientifically proven to be of great benefit to the human body. Don't forget that winter sun is capable of burning just as summer sun is.

Plan your vacation carefully. Do what you think you will enjoy most. Go to the resort you feel will give you the most change and relaxation. But, I beg of you, live moderately, even if it is a vacation. It will help you to be happy and healthy for the rest of the year if you make proper use of the privilege.

The most satisfying Chink meal I've found in town was at the Port Arthur in Chinatown some years ago. On a balcony we had just been served a pickled delicacy known as kumquats when autos seemed to be backfiring in the pinched street below. I leaned over the balcony and leaned right back again. A tong war was tonging with sawed-off shotguns blazing and several sprawled bodies stretched out on sidewalks. We made a hasty exit without tasting a kumquat. Or paying the check.

Ambitious young writers are frequently offended when older members of the fraternity refuse to criticize their efforts. But there are reasons. For instance, a writer told Emily Post her "Etiquette" was not in step with the times. It sold 200,000 and is still selling. Eddie Guest was told by a dozen syndicate men his daily poem would never do. Peter B. Kyne was advised to remain in the lumber business. Similar incidents are endless.

The most beautiful penmanship coming to my desk for years is that of professional ballplayers. Standing out in the list are Christy Matthewson, Mike Donlin, James A. Wiggs, Eddie Grant, Bill Wambsganss, Mike Mitchell and Miller Huggins. There are others, too, I can not recall. It is always a surprise, for due to the Ring Lardner influence, many think of ball players as bush league bone-heads. Aside from extraordinarily fine handwriting, they express themselves more intelligently than the average correspondent. Some day we'd like to have Damon Runyon give this idea a twirl.

The Chicago Planetarium.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Astronomy is one of the most fascinating of all scientific subjects. It deals with the entire visible universe of stars, planets and other bodies inter-stellar space. Furthermore, it plumbs the depths of this mysterious inter-stellar space, and studies countless objects—thousands, millions—which are not visible to the naked eye, and would remain invisible forever, save for the marvelous instruments—the telescope, the spectroscope and the camera.

As students of the technical, mathematical and observational aspects of astronomy will tell you, astronomy is very difficult. For many people seem unable to visualize, or do so only with great difficulty, the movements of the heavenly bodies, and their relations to each other. The teacher of astronomy has to draw diagrams, on a blackboard, of phenomena which take place in space. Objects and movements in three-dimensional space have to be represented on a two-dimensional sheet of paper or blackboard. Some people readily understand such diagrams; others unfortunately, lacking the visualizing faculty, do not.

Go into a museum containing old scientific and astronomical instruments, and you will doubtless see a curious looking mechanism, a model known as an orrery. This is the instrument which has been used for centuries by astronomers to explain or actually demonstrate the movements of the planets and the satellites. In the center of the model is a white globe representing the sun. Further out, at differing distances, at the ends of rods are smaller globes, representing the planets. From the main rods radiate other branching rods, at the extremities of which are still smaller globes representing the satellites of the planets. The whole instrument is like a mechanical bush with globular buds at the ends of the rectilinear branches. It is geared up so that, by turning a crank, the various portions of the mechanism perform certain motions duplicating, on a small and greatly foreshortened scale, the motions of the heavenly bodies in space, individually and with relationship to each other.

Some years ago, Dr. Oskar von Miller, curator of the Dutsches museum, of Munich, conceived the idea of constructing a representation of the firmament by means of a dome stimulating the overarching canopy of the heavens. Upon this stage, the planets and stars were to be the actors. All the principal features of the heavens were to be projected, in the form of points of light, upon this great dome. The planets and stars, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and the other principal planetary objects, were to be shown moving among the fixed stars just as they actually do in the sky. The dome must be sprinkled not with a few, but literally with thousands of stars.

After five years of labor, Dr. Walter Bauersfeld, chief engineer of the great Zeiss works, completed the first planetarium under Dr. Von Miller's direction. Although it proved very expensive to construct, the result was justified by the immense popularity with which it was greeted by the public. Cities began to vie with each other in constructing these fascinating new astronomical theaters. There are many such in Europe, Germany alone having eighteen planetaria.

There is but one in the United States, that at Chicago, very recently completed. It is the gift of Max Adler, a philanthropist, who expended about $600,000 in the construction of the planetarium and a suitable building to house it.

This building stands on an artificial island in Lake Michigan and is an object of beauty because of its architectural simplicity. On the mainland near at hand, stand the Field Museum of Natural History and the new Shedd aquarium. All three institutions, devoted to science, will constitute integral parts of the exposition to be held at Chicago, in commemoration of a century of progress.

In the center of the building stands a huge light projector, which has a frame running on a track laid in the floor. The demonstration is carried on in semi-darkness, which makes the dome seem excessively remote. By pressing buttons the Milky way and 2,700 stars are projected against the dome: the great nebula in Andromeda, the Orion nebula, the Beehive cluster in Cancer, Venus, what you will. As Stromgren, of the Copenhagen observatory says, regarding the planetarium: "It is a school, a theater, a cinema in one."—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

A Way to the Fur Coat.

One way of getting a fur coat is to kill the wolf at the door.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Nov. 3—Polo has a place of its own—and a very definite one, too—in the sports program in Washington.

Since there are so many army men in the capital, this is but natural. Yet the service is by no means the only devotee.

Three times each week during the summer and fall, in Potomac park, at the rear of the White House, hundreds witness the games. It is estimated that something like 150,000 people attend the games annually.

Nearby army posts furnish the teams. Admission is free.

And the list of players includes the names of those famous in polo. There's Captain Peter P. Rhodes, who has a seven-goal rating—the highest ever bestowed on army men. He once played No. 3 for the war department. At the present Captain Rhodes is in South America playing for the army against Argentine military teams.

Major Quackenmeyer, former aid to General Pershing; Colonel Nelson Margetts, now military attache in China, and Major George S. Patton, who led the army to victory over the Hawaiian island team in 1926, are among those who have played with the Washington outfit.

David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, who has a three-goal rating, plays in Potomac park frequently.

It's because they love the game that army officers in the capital play, for polo is expensive to them both in time and money. The army buys no horses and will maintain but one for each man, yet one must have a string of three to play through six periods.

And while the park superintendent provides them two fields, they must keep them in condition.

Most of the members of the war department club, however, secure unbroken horses and train them.

And they cling to the hope that at some time in the future, interest will be sufficiently aroused among civilians in the capital to form a polo club of their own.

Washington polo dates from 1909, when, with the support of the late General Henry T. Allen and others, the war department club was formed. Fort Myer, just across the Potomac in Virginia, had established a club in 1908 and was the chief rival.

General Allen, Colonel Charles G. Treat, Major George Langhorne and Captain Gordon Johnson formed the team which first won recognition for the army.

Since then growth has been rapid.

Today, Fort Myer supports two clubs—the Third Cavalry and the Sixteenth Field Artillery. The engineer school at Fort Humphrey has its team, the 115th field artillery of the Maryland national guard has a team, as well as the marines down at Quantico.

Chief competition is for the Argentine cup presented to the war department polo club by Colonel Angel M. Zuloaga of the Argentine embassy in Washington, and the chief of staff and chief of cavalry's trophies.

The clinic and charity ward have been instrumental in preventing the spread of disease, and in locating and treating cases at a time when they can be successfully handled. Two of three occasions requiring the use of an X-ray resulted n the discovery that two children had tuberculosis. One of the two cases of tuberculosis identified by the X-ray has been located in a sanatarium at Mt. Vernon, and another will be receiving treatment in a few weeks.

Many times the clinic, which treats medical cases, dental cases and other cases where the patients are able to come to the hospital for treatment, is instrumental in discovering cases of a more serious nature for the charity ward. An example of this is a recent gotter case discovered by the clinic. The woman was unable to work, but after an operation had been performed in the charity ward, she was able to support herself and her dependents.

The King's Daughters charity ward has cared for 37 cases since May 1 at an expense of $997. The clinic handled 102 medical cases nine tonsilectomies, 15 dental patients and three X-ray cases last month.

Detailed announcements will be made within the next 10 days.

Red Cross Active

Red Cross nurses were primarily responsible for three crippled children of this city being taken to Columbus last week for surgical and medical attention at the expense of the state division of charities. One was admitted to a Columbus hospital for a special surgical operation.

Nurses have been busily engaged in the last few months. The Red Cross nurse is not solely an agent of charity. A charge for nursing service is made in homes where the families can afford to pay for the service. Part time service including as few as three or four short calls a day to see that the patient is resting easily, is available at a small cost.

Prepare for Work

Welfare work of the Community Fund will probably begin soon under a new plan of centralized distribution, it was announced this week at the headquarters.

None of the charity money subscribed in the last campaign has yet been expended.

Histories of various charity cases from last year's work will be used in guiding the distribution of relief funds this winter.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums and pompoms carried out a lovely color effect throughout the rooms and for the tables at which covers were placed for 66 guests. Palms adorned the ballroom forming a harmonizing background for the dancers.

Rose Discovers a Clue

ESTELLE dined that evening with [illegible] young matron of mis[illegible] When she decided [illegible] that she wanted to [illegible] the Club Rivoli, Lester surrendered to the [illegible] was evidently written [illegible] to meet the blonde [illegible] again, for she had [illegible] so was to be at the [illegible] that night.

"[illegible] waste that kind of thing [illegible] dear. Run and see if [illegible] this next while I talk [illegible] Henderson over there. Then [illegible] can take me home before I [illegible] dislocate my jaw with suppressed yawnings."

Lester, having thus handled time and space entirely to his own convenience, hovered negligently before Rose and presently was embarked with her upon the dancing floor. He began to think of Hallie's dancing and then remembered his society duty.

"And now I've got you," he murmured, "I don't know what to say to you."

"You were going to tell me something," she reminded him. She had a too eager, breathless way of speaking that vaguely offended him; and he was bored to death by the adoration in her eyes.

"You had a reason, Mr. Broon for refusing to believe what I told you in Sherry's. I want to hear what it was."

He glanced down at her, fleetingly surprised by the urgency of her demand. It almost sounded as though she—

No, the impression had gone and he could not bother to re-capture it.

"This is a rotten place to have to try and justify myself," he said. "And I think by the way you're dancing with me that you've forgiven me already."

She blushed, stammered and wriggled. But she was not to be evaded.

"You know another Rose Conaldine, don't you?" she persisted. "I believe you said so. I want to hear all about her; we may be relatives or something. And then—" she added, returning to her coquetry—"I'll see whether you really have any claim to be forgiven or not."

Lester groaned inwardly. Out of the corner of his eye he had glimpsed his hostess and Bill talking and laughing amiably together. It seemed very hard that they should be enjoying themselves while he was getting more and more bored and hot.

"Well, yes. I do know another girl of your name. I had made an appointment with her which she didn't keep. And I thought—" he improvised—"I thought that she had asked you to try and pass yourself off instead of her."

"But—" she seemed unduly excited by this very unconvincing statement—"but are we alike? Are we the same age?"

"No, you're not really a bit alike; she's very dark and you're blonde. That's where I lost my head and behaved like a fool."

"Is she my age, though? Please tell me—I'm awfully interested. How old is she?"

"Between 23 and 24, I believe," answered Lester absently.

The tulle-covered bundle in his arms suddenly seemed limp.

"Tired?" he asked.

She did not answer at once.

"Yes," she said, then. "Yes, I believe I am. Could we find somewhere quiet—?"

"I'd like to a lot, but I've got to take my hostess home. She's addicted to early hours. I'll take you back to your table."

"Mr. Broon—"

"M—m?"

"Don't think me a nuisance but I really would so love to meet this other Rose Conaldine. Can you fix it for me? . . . I mean, it's really awfully queer our sharing such an unusual name and we really ought to find out all about each other. We may be—" she gave a squeal of laughter—"long-lost sisters."

"So you might," murmured Lester, now determined to be rid of her at any price. "I'm sure she'd be delighted. I shall be seeing her soon and you can get together. She's an orphan, too. Brought up by an aunt, I understand."

"Was the aunt a Miss Conaldine, too?"

"I forget her name. No, I don't though—what am I thinking of? It was Ellesmore. Harrietta Ellesmore. Miss Conaldine used that name herself for a time. . . . What's up?"

She was looking stricken but with an amazement overlying it.

"I've met her under that name! I forgot—I forgot her!"

"She isn't generally forgotten," said Lester coldly.

"I forgot her!" she repeated in her awed, unhappy whisper. "It was she—of course that's why she was looking for Mr. Perle—and I never gave her another thought from that moment to this."

Lester was puzzled.

"She'll forgive you," he hazarded. She looked round her almost wildly.

"I'm terribly tired," she said. "Please take me to my table."

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

"LAZY" SAID THE BOSS

"Acidity" Said the Doctor!

Charged with laziness— guilty simply of acidity! That's the situation with many men today. Always tired, have to pull themselves together for each and every task. They're branded as lazy and ambitionless when the real truth is that they're sick men—victims of acidity.

Excess acid, forming in the stomach causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning. It also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal. This breeds poisons that sap our strength and vitality and so tax our nerves that we can't sleep soundly at night or work efficiently during the day.

Magnesia Oxoids developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

Make this Acidity Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids at small cost from Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, you don't notice a decided improvement, return the bottle to the druggist and he will cheerfully refund your money.—Adv.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

WHEN me and Jubilee woke up yesterday morning, which was Sunday, I found out that I was thinking about that garter that is growing in the Lost Bag of Tripe's mother's neck, and has got to be cut out. I felt of my neck all over and couldn't find anything that oughtn't to be there. A fella can't have everything that grows in his neck cut out, because some things has to grow in a fella's neck, else he wouldn't have anything but a backbone to hold his head on, and everything he swallowed would fall out all over himself and he would always be getting sent away from the table. Anyhow there wasn't anything that felt like a garter in my neck, and I was glad of it. A garter isn't a bad thing to have so long as it is someone else that has it.

I pushed Jubilee out of bed and got his rope and went to the window and opened it to let him down, and it was snowing. I let him down and then I slammed the window and put on my short britches and went downstairs in three jumps hollering "It's snowing! It's snowing!" All at once my father hollered, "Shut up that noise out there!" I said, "But it's snowing!" "Well," he said, "there isn't anything we can do about it, is there?" I said, "No sir" and then I heard my grandfather grumbling, and my ant said "The idea!" and I grabbed the milk pail and done a nose dive for the barn. I thought they would like to know. But a fella can't tell grown-ups anything.

It wasn't snowing so very hard and the ground wasn't covered, but when the bunch began to come in the barn there was snow on their clothes, and Younies and Maggie and Feeble had on leggins and mittens, and Younies was the nicest looking. She looks like a wax doll. Feeble has got a face like a Kewpie, but Maggie looks like a skinnymedink however she dresses, and she is the one the unkle I used to have said would be a stunning beauty when she grew up.

When I had fed my face and got washed we all hiked out to find enough snow to make snowballs, but we couldn't find enough without scraping up some dirt along with it, and it wasn't so very cold, so we all was pretty badly smeared by the time we got to Sunday school. We had to stand up and sing "Wash me and I will be whiter than snow," but when Sunday school was over we were still dirty. I had to stay home and mind Annabelle Lee because I got dirty, but if I wasn't dirty they would have found some other reason.

Today was Monday and there was enough snow so that we all had to stay because someone accidentally painted Mush's wife. I would think anyone that married Mush would have learnt to take a joke. Anyhow I am glad it snowed.

If you stay in the house you don't spend money.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Edith Tells Dicky of His Wife's Trip

"MR. GRAHAM'S decision is final." Mr. Veritzen asked when I had given him Dicky's ultimatum concerning Mary's refusal of Colin Cameron's offer, and upon my affirmative reply, he rose to go. I went to the door with him uttering the perfunctory hope that we should soon see him at the farm, and closed the door after him with a thankful little feeling that the disagreeable interview had been finished before Dicky's return.

"He took it better than I expected," Lillian observed as she, too, rose to go. "He's boiling inside, of course, but he can't very well show his choler. That would give away the fact that his is the baton to which young Cameron is posturing. I wish I knew what he's planning behind that mask of his. I think one thing got under his skin last night, however."

"Noel's frail appearance?" I queried.

Lillian nodded.

"After all, Phil is normally a generous and most affectionate soul if the original balky mule. If he's coming out of his brainstorm, at all something about which I'm completely at sea, he can't help but feel Noel's condition. And the boy is all he has in the world. There's one thing certain, if you can't succeed in making him capitulate at Christmas time, when all his emotional poles are open, you never can do it any other time. So don't let anything stand in the way—save honor, of course."

She blew me a mocking kiss, and went back to her own apartment. Thirty seconds later, I heard Dicky's key in the lock.

"All alone?" he asked breezily as he came in, but an intangible something in his voice made me wary, and I answered promptly and truthfully.

"Just now, yes. But Lillian and Mr. Veritzen just left."

"Yes, I saw the old goat hoofing it down the stairs as I came up on the elevator, and concluded he was paying a party call."

His voice was derisive and ill-natured, and I rose to the spur.

"But, as it happened, he wasn't," I said. "I asked Lillian to come over, and then I telephoned him to come up here."

"Why?"

"Because I wanted him to know at once what you had decided about Mary and that talkie offer."

"It couldn't wait, I suppose, until I got home and told him myself, or, better still, told Cameron. He's the man to notify."

Edith Worked Fast

"You know how hard it is to get hold of anyone like Cameron," I said, trying to keep my voice calm and reasonable. "And we're going to the farm so early in the morning that I thought we'd better get the message delivered. You agree with me, I'm sure, that Mr. Veritzen is really the one to whom the message should be delivered. Young Cameron is only a mouthpiece. And I made it clear to Mr. Veritzen that you were the one who objected to Mary's accepting the offer. I didn't wish to appear to usurp your prerogative."

"Nor to incur the old dodo's displeasure yourself," Dicky countered sardonically. "Always the considerate first aid to the injured, aren't you. Well! It's all right with me. I'm not sold on talking to old Phil at any time, mighty glad to shunt the job to anybody else. But may it be permitted a humble, curious husband to inquire just what brand of Christmas shopping you were doing upstate this morning?"

I thanked my particular little joss that I had anticipated this question and was prepared for it. With an ironical little smile I looked at him.

"Edith didn't lose any time, did she?" I asked.

"Ede?" Dicky repeated, blustering. "What's she got to do with it?"

"Everything," I returned. "She saw me coming out of a through train at the Grand Central Station this afternoon and waved to me, but I pretended not to see her. I have been wondering how long it would be before she told you about it. As I expected, she lost no time, did she?"

"That's a——" Dicky began hotly, then dropped his voice to a sullen note. "Suppose she did mention it casually. That doesn't explain a journey like that out of the city upon this last day when you're supposed to be so busy, you don't know which is your right hand."

"I did not know that I was under the obligation to explain all my movements to you." I began, then my voice softened instinctively, and I rushed on, "but I'd be glad to, Dicky, only it isn't my own affair at all. I did make a short journey out of town this morning, stayed up all night so I could get an early train and return in time to finish my shopping. But the journey was made because of another person, outside of the family. Some time I can explain it to you. Now I can't."

"Won't, you mean," Dicky retorted with a snarl which banished my meekness.

"As you like," I said shortly, and Dicky, turning, looked down at me steadily for a long half minute.

"I see it now, you anointed little idiot," he said, with a surprising change in his voice. "You went up to the Catskills on some errand for Lillian."

"Oh' don't say that," I whispered. "Lillian didn't know I went."

"And you don't want her to know," Dicky said shrewdly. "That cinches it. You're been up at Cosgrove's to see Robert Savarin about her."

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.
